"The Times" has a larger bona fide circulation than any other newspaper published in Southern California.

It is genuine Southern California weather.

Put your ear to the ground and hear things grow.

Not Solomon in all his glory was arrayed with such splendor as the fields of semi-tropical California.

The Arctic condition of affairs which now prevails in New York will be good for at least 5000 more California settlers next season.

This terrible storm now prevailing in the East has prostrated the wires, which accounts for our slender telegraphic report this morning.

It is good for some eyes to see the street-cleaning on our streets yesterday cleaning up and curing of some of the vile mud that obstructs them. Let the good work go on.

The City Council has finally decided to license the so-called "Turf and Grain Exchange" gambling house at the rate of $250 a month. If it is to be the case, the city has not the power to suppress this institution. It is probably the best to make it pay a license, but that license ought to have been at least four times as heavy. The interest evinced by certain members of the Council in the existence of this gambling "game" has been, to say the least, very peculiar.

The Council used some very emphatic language yesterday in relation to the street car, water and gas companies, which have been working their own sweet will on the streets. A committee of inspection was appointed, and it looks as if these corporations had about got to the end of their rope. They have exhausted the public patience long ago. It is to be hoped that no "indignance" they may bring to bear will induce the Council to leave them alone, after they have been once stirred up.

The bold steel described in our local columns where a San Francisco commission house sent a Los Angeles orange grower $10 profit on the shipment of a carload of oranges and pocketed $500, shows how carefully our horticulturists should be in the choice of their consignees. The tiller of the soil is considered fair game by scoundrels of every description, but Southern California horticulturists are too intelligent to submit uncomplainingly to such treatment. These San Francisco rogues should be sent to jail.

The rumor specially telegraphed to THE TIMES from San Francisco regarding an asserted plan to run Blaine for Governor of Maine this summer, with the view of having him elected to the United States Senate to succeed Mr. Fry, will be received with considerable caution. The time is now at hand when rumors of all descriptions, reliable and otherwise, will come thick and fast. Should Mr. Blaine decide to run for Governor of Maine, we presume there would be very few people who would be willing to bet on his opponent.

RANDALL's tariff bill differs very materially from that of Mills. Its most important feature is that it regulates the internal tax on tobacco on fruit brands, and also repeats the license tax on wholesale and retail liquor dealers. It carries to the free trade a large number of articles now paying duties, and which enter into consumption, either as raw material or otherwise. The estimated reduction under this bill will be on internal revenue, $10,000,000; on tariff, $25,000,000. The bill is fully twice as long as Mills' bill. It will scarcely prove any more acceptable to manufacturers than the latter. The only fruit mentioned in the telegraphic summary is oranges, which are to pay $1.75 per 1000.

Our local columns will be found a very important announcement regarding a recommendation of the General Land Office that certain lands within the limits of a grant to the Southern Pacific Railway Company be opened to entry under the general laws of the United States. The lands thus affected comprise not less than 450,000 acres. They are largely located in the northern part of Los Angeles county, and include a great deal of excellent land adapted to the raising of grain and deciduous fruits. There will undoubtedly be a great rush of land seekers in this direction. We also publish some valuable information regarding the recent status of public lands in Southern California.

POINTS OF THE MORNING'S NEWS.

English Female Help.

Mrs. Margaret Parker of England, who has been organizing the sending of female help from that country to California, has a letter in this issue, in which she complains that her work—has been entirely a labor of love—has been misapprehended, and her efforts not appreciated as they should be. It has been asserted that the persons sent over expect to act merely as companions, whereas Mrs. Parker says they have had practical training in household duties, and are ready to perform all such tasks that may be assigned to them. Mrs. Parker reports that those from whom she has heard are pleased with our country and people. It has been asserted by some who have expressed their uneasiness regarding the project, that "help" in California is expected to do the work of two or three servants. If, however, there is any foundation for the universal and persistent complaints of California housewives about the difficulty of securing satisfactory help, there must be thousands of families who would be only too glad to secure the services of these English women, without expecting them to perform more onerous duties than an American domestic assistant is contented to undertake, which are certainly not excessive.

England has a surplus of worthy, industrious women, who are willing to work. California housekeepers are constantly bawling the impossibility of securing such women. It would seem that the work in which Mrs. Parker is engaged offered an excellent solution of the difficulty, and it would be a pity to attempt to throw cold water upon the project, which, before has been fully proved that the result of those laborers cannot prove satisfactory, which at present seems to be far from the case.

Henry Bergh is dead.

His domestic animals could read and understand there would be great mourning among the faithful four-footed beasts whom he so ably and ardently defended. Bergh occasionally carried his views to extremes, as do all earnest advocates of one idea, but he was an honest, warm-hearted man, and accomplished a great deal in suppressing cruelty to the animal world and making it disreputable to treat our dumb friend with that harshness and neglect which was formerly too common among all classes. In many cases it is to be hoped that the "cruelty" treatment is to be attributed to lack of reflection, for the man who would wilfully and deliberately torture an offensive animal deserves to be excluded from the society of his fellows. Peace to Henry Bergh's ashes, and may a worthy successor arise to fill his place as the defender of the brute creation.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—A large and very enthusiastic audience assembled last night to hear the Corried English Opera Company. The opera is of Strauss' most charming, tuneful airs, in places almost great from the majesty of its harmony, the intricate weaving of its theme, and in all most satisfactory. Indeed it is exceedingly well rendered by this very clever company. There is no prominent star, no especially shining light, and yet the company is so well balanced that the least one can say is that all through there is an even excellence that is well sustained. Miss Louise, who has been singing for some time, is a very sweet and pure notes, and his quivering numbers are most telling. Mr. Jacques, a good, Miss Helene, a very clever actor, and his voice, while a trifle rasping in the higher register owing to a bad method in taking his notes, has some very sweet and pure notes, and his quivering numbers are most telling. THEATRE.—The "Old Gypsy" last night, her singing was even more telling than her acting, and that was clear. Her rich, smooth contralto was most satisfying, and in several of her scenes gave evidence of strong dramatic qualities. Sig. Taglieri, a clever actor, and his voice, while a trifle rasping in the higher register owing to a bad method in taking his notes, has some very sweet and pure notes, and his quivering numbers are most telling.

LUNG DISEASES.

A word to the wise is sufficient. Dr. Sweany of Philadelphia has arranged to combine the new method (Bergson's) by gaseous enemata, for the cure of consumption and all diseases of the lungs and respiratory tract with his own system, hypernutrition, which he has practiced so successfully in Philadelphia, where thousands can testify to the success of his treatment; and now by combining the two systems Dr. Sweany wishes to say to all people who are suffering with consumption, asthma, dyspnea, catarrh, blood poisons, etc., or any disease whatever of the respiratory organs, that "there is balm in Gilead." That with his combined treatment he can cure any and all cases of consumption and lung affections.

A FEW EXPLANATORY NOTES.

The Bergson treatment for consumption by gaseous enemata consists of the introduction of the paraffine gas into the rectum, where it is immediately taken up by the veins and passes through the venous circulation to the liver, from thence to the heart and from thence to the lungs, passing all of this distance through the venous blood, and reaches the lungs in a state of purity, where it can be detected in from one to four minutes after its administration into the rectum. If this gaseous substance should be taken through arterial blood its powerful effects on the diseased lung tissue would be destroyed by the oxygen contained in arterial blood. The paraffine gas in venous blood until it reaches the lungs, where it receives its charge of oxygen from the air drawn into the lungs during the act of breathing, after which it passes from the lungs into the arterial circulation through the system, and finally reaches the rectum. And this is the reason why the paraffine gas converted into venous blood, having given up its oxygen to the system. The difference between arterial blood and venous blood, the oxygen, the former being loaded with it and the latter being devoid of it. It is upon this fact alone that Bergson, the French physician, has based his method, and he has made it so practical, hence it is also that all of the inhalations are of little or no value because, in order to reach the lungs, the paraffine gas must be exposed to oxygen in its passage from the mouth to the lungs through the medium of atmospheric air, which destroys their value.

Some persons who do not understand the anatomy and physiology of the human system would be at a loss to know how medicine placed into the rectum could act beneficially on the lungs, but when they understand how the venous blood rushes from the rectum into the venous system, and all parts of the body to the lungs to receive a new charge of oxygen, then they will readily understand how this paraffine gas, introduced into the rectum, is carried along with this blood directly to the lungs.

The method is easy of application, and acts directly on the diseased lung tissue, killing the germ of the disease, after which the tubercles heal up, expectoration ceases, the lungs become a natural and healthy condition, and all of the distressing symptoms of consumption soon disappear. This method practically brings the lungs to the surface of the body, but treated topically the same as can the skin.

Dr. Sweany's system of treatment by hypernutrition for consumption and all diseases of the lungs, blood, brain and nervous system consists of a course of forced nutrition, by which new nerve, new muscle, new bone and new tissue of all kinds are made in the body and substituted for the diseased tissue, thus forcing the disease from the system by fortifying its enemy, nature, and supplying her with material strength, which she can most effectively use in exterminating disease, etc. Persons in actual weight while under this treatment from one-quarter to one pound per day, which means a great deal to a weak and debilitated person.

We could not expect a body of carpenters to go out on a vacant lot, build and construct a house without first having the material necessary to construct the house placed within their reach. Hence, how can we expect nature to reconstruct a debilitated and impoverished system without first having the necessary material to be used in the reconstruction placed within her reach. Dr. Sweany's system of hypernutrition places these materials within nature's reach, and the work goes on to a speedy and happy completion, for nature is a skilled mechanic, a true and energetic workman, a preserver and friend to health.

Dr. Sweany has arranged to combine the two new and wonderfully successful methods, and appeals to all who may be suffering to seek relief where it may be had. The one method kills the germ of the disease, while the other goes to assist nature. What can be the result? Health, happiness and long life.

Is there balm in Gilead?
What more do we want to know? Come, all, not skeptical, and to investigate, for investigation has been most thorough, the proof of which is here afforded, but come to be treated to get well, to reap the rich reward of the investigations and experience of others.

It has been demonstrated beyond a doubt this system of treatment is near a specific for diseases peculiar to women. The most happy results obtained. Women who have been treated by other methods without obtaining relief are specially requested to call. All irregularities corrected.

Dr. Sweany can be consulted at his office, during office hours, as follows: 10 to 12 a.m., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 p.m. Sundays, 10 to 12 only.

Office, 31 N. Main st., Los Angeles, Cal.
